PROBERS PERUSE WIRE MESSAGES

Hundred Telegrams Sent from Capital to McLean and Fall.

MANY HELD GERMAIN TO PROBE

Names of Francis McAdoo, A. Mitchell Palmer and Others Mentioned in Telegrams, Members of Committee Announce—Sinclair, Oil Magazine, and Publisher McLean to Be Called to the Stand.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Harry Sinclair, oil magnate, and Edward B. McLean, millionaire publisher, will be called to the stand this week by the senate committee probing the oil land leases. Subpoenas will probably be issued late today.

Senator Walsh announced he had no intention of subpoenaing Wm. H. Hayes, former postmaster general. Walsh said he had told his clerk to issue a subpoena for G. D. Wahlberg, former private secretary to Harry F. Sinclair. Wahlberg will be questioned about references he made in previous testimony to a "Mr. Hayes." The committee took it that the "Mr. Hayes" was an employee in the Sinclair office, but because of recent developments they wished to make certain of his identity.

Telegrams furnished by H. T. Taff, general superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph company of Washington, were examined by the committee in executive session to trace connections between high officials and the ex-secretary of interior, Fall. These messages are said to have revealed that Fall, through McLean, was in intimate touch with every thought and action of the investigating committee which was sitting in Washington; that the day Senator Walsh, leading investigator, arrived in Palm Beach to seek evidence from McLean and Fall, the former put in a leased wire from Washington to Palm Beach; that of the hundred or more telegrams sent to McLean and Fall, two-thirds of them were considered "pertinent" to the oil scandal investigation and will be made public later, and that no member of the investigating committee communicated with Western Union with Fall or McLean.

It developed that the name of Francis McAdoo, a New York lawyer, was mentioned a number of times in the telegrams exchanged between Edward B. McLean at Palm Beach, and his employees in Washington. Members of the committee are seeking to learn whether this is Francis H. McAdoo, son of William G. McAdoo. Francis H. McAdoo is a member of the New York law firm of Miller & Otis. References are made in the telegrams to telephone communication with "McAdoo," committee members said, but they added that it was not made clear what matters were discussed with him.

Others mentioned in the telegrams include, senators said, A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney general in the Wilson administration; Albert B. Fall, former interior secretary; J. W. Zevely, counsel for Harry F. Sinclair, and Senators Lenroot and Smoot of the oil committee.

Palmer was counsel for McLean in the oil matter and presented to the committee the publisher's original statement, which he subsequently amended, that he had loaned Fall $100,000. The references to Senators Lenroot and Smoot quoted statements by them appearing in the official record, it was stated.

Head Severed by Engine.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 27.—Alan J. Hill, 25, former Columbus and Toledo baseball player, was found dead in the railroad yards here. His head had been severed by a locomotive. Police believe he committed suicide. Hill was released by the Columbus club in the middle of last season on account of ill health.

Alleged Fence Raided.

Cincinnati, Feb. 27.—The alleged distributing plant for practically all dry goods and men's apparel stolen in Cincinnati during the last three months was uncovered when detectives raided a furnishing store, arresting the two proprietors, Abe and Gustav Linder.

Gem Robbery Reported.

New York, Feb. 27.—Two holdup men entered the apartment of Harry Kahn, bound him with a pair of portieres and ransacked the place, stealing, according to police, $11,500 worth of jewelry and $525 in cash. He was released by neighbors several hours later.

PAID BY GAMBLERS?

Protection Money Alleged to Have Been Distributed in Cleveland.
Cleveland, Feb. 27.—Safety Director Barry announced that reports had reached him to the effect that protection money, said to total $70,000 a month, has been paid by gamblers to unknown persons, who professed to protect the fraternity here during the past two years. Twenty thousand dollars a month was alleged to have been paid by some of the individuals interested in the successful operation of slot machines in Cleveland and the other $50,000 was credited as coming from operators of "black jack" and other gambling enterprises. Barry stated he did not intend to investigate the stories, but would continue unrelenting war on all forms of gambling, and then would proceed to wipe out the whitey runner from the city.

OIL PROSECUTORS EXPECT HARD FIGHT

Taking Great Pains in Preparing Government's Case.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Former Senator Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, in whose hands President Coolidge has placed prosecution of the oil cases, are taking "exceptional pains," it was stated, to be ready to fight out the major issues of the oil land lease cases at an early stage of the battle. As soon as temporary injunctions are asked, Pomerene and Roberts anticipate that Harry F. Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny will ask the courts for immediate hearings on making the injunctions permanent, forcing the government into the open. Whatever criminal action may be contemplated will be taken later, with the convening of a special grand jury. The task of Pomerene and Roberts, it was explained, is difficult, because of mountains of documents and testimony to be examined on the one hand and the unavailability of much of it for court use on the other. With six assistants, they are holding daily conferences, sifting the material turned over to them by the senate investigating committee and searching the books for applicable laws.

Bonus Bill Passed.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 27.—The New York legislature has approved the measure designed to provide machinery for the distribution of $45,000,000 as a bonus for world war veterans of New York state. It now goes to Governor Smith for his signature. The bill seeks to provide that all men and women who served in the United States army during the recent war as soldiers, sailors or nurses, will receive $10 for each month they served. A limit of $150 is set for total payments to any one individual, however.

McAdoo Files by Wire.

Columbus, Feb. 27.—William Gibbs McAdoo of California formally filed as a candidate in Ohio for the Democratic presidential nomination. McAdoo telegraphed from Los Angeles to Secretary of State Brown declaring himself as a candidate in the Ohio preferential primary. He designated Wilbur D. Wakin, Cleveland attorney, as his representative, and authorized Wakin to sign the declaration of McAdoo candidates for delegates.

PROBE RESOLUTION GOES OVER

Memorial Services For the Late President Harding Being Held by the Solons Today—Senator Reed's Attack on McAdoo and Senator Johnson's Criticism of the Present Administration Read Into the Record.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Senator Wheeler's resolution for an investigation of the department of justice will probably be considered by the senate tomorrow.

Senator Lodge, Republican floor leader, blocked consideration of the resolution yesterday. Today memorial services for President Harding are being held in the senate.

Senator Moses (Rep., N. H.) read into the Congressional Record an abstract of Senator Reed's speech at St. Louis in which Reed attacked William G. McAdoo for his legal services to E. L. Doheny and Charles W. Morse. Reed is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president. When Senator Moses concluded, Senator Harrison (Dem., Miss.) retaliated by bringing up an article from a Portland, Ore., newspaper quoting Senator Stanford (Rep., Ore.) as saying that Mr. McAdoo had "been given a clean bill of health" in the oil matter. Then Senator Harrison obtained unanimous consent to place into the Record newspaper abstracts of addresses by Senator Johnson of California, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, in which he attacked the record of the present administration.

Senator Hefflin (Dem., Ala.) delivered a lengthy speech on Teapot Dome, in which he charged William Boyce Thompson borrowed $30,000,000 on a "dummy note" while he was connected with the Republican national committee.

President Coolidge, after the regular cabinet meeting, conferred first with Attorney General Daugherty, Secretary Weeks, Postmaster General New and Secretary of Labor Davis. Later it was officially stated on behalf of President Coolidge that there would be no statement from the president on the Daugherty case at this time. Daugherty declared he wants the senate investigation started without delay and is ready to meet it with a partial defense which he has placed in the hands of Senator Willis of Ohio.

Daugherty, in his letter to Willis, admitted he has traded in Sinclair oil stocks, but denied his transactions resulted from any knowledge of the Teapot Dome lease.

The attorney general also declares he was "not called upon by Secretary Fall or anyone else for an opinion in regard to the wisdom or legality of the oil leases, and I never volunteered an opinion to Secretary Fall or anyone else."

Before he became attorney general, Daugherty said he bought stock in Sinclair Consolidated "from time to time in the ordinary course of my personal investments." Six months after the Teapot Dome lease was executed, he stated, "endeavoring to recoup my losses in said stock, I sold a portion of my holdings therein acquired and paid for as aforesaid before I became attorney general. Therefore, I bought back and paid for the same amount of said stock thus sold, at a price slightly less than the price for which the same amount had been sold."

Movie Ban Lifted.

Columbus, Feb. 27.—The ban placed by the state board of film censors on the showing in Ohio of moving pictures in which Mabel Normand or Edna Purviance appears has been lifted. Vernon M. Riegel, state education director, announced. The action against these two stars was taken shortly after they gained notoriety as witnesses to the shooting of a wealthy oil man in his apartment at Los Angeles.

Willis Forwards Declaration.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Senator Frank B. Willis has forwarded to Ohio his declaration of candidacy for delegate-at-large to the Cleveland national convention. The signers of Senator Willis' petition are representative of the district in which Senator Willis lives, and Representatives Frank Murphy of Steubenville, Israel M. Foster of Athens, John C. Spear of Columbus and Nicholas Longworth of Cincinnati.

GOINGS IN OHIO

Suits Filed by Bus Men.

Columbus, Feb. 27.—S. A. Goble, operating motor buses between New Lexington and Columbus and between New Lexington and Newark, filed three suits in supreme court asking review of public utilities commission's ruling on his applications for certificates of convenience and necessity. Goble was denied a certificate to operate between Columbus and New Lexington and another bus line was permitted to operate over this route. He was given a certificate to operate between New Lexington and Newark, but was denied the right to take on passengers at Thornville or beyond for Newark.

New Churches Planned.

Cincinnati, Feb. 27.—More than $200,000,000 will be spent for church building in the United States during the present year, it was estimated at a conference here of representatives of church boards of architecture from throughout the country. Special stress was given to the necessity for scientifically graded Sunday schools and for the inclusion of social and recreational features in such buildings. The meeting was held under the direction of the home missions council.

Bell Orders Improvements.

Cleveland, Feb. 27.—Improvements to cost $2,600,000 were authorized by directors of the Ohio Bell Telephone company after the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 had been declared on preferred stock. The appropriation for additions and betterments brings the total authorized to date in 1924 to $5,600,000. No dividend was declared on the $23,500,000 common stock. President Charles P. Cooper said earnings were insufficient to warrant dividend action on this.

Boy Killed, Three Injured.

Springfield, O., Feb. 27.—One boy was killed here and three others are in a hospital from serious injuries received when the auto in which they were riding slid down a hill and collided with a Big Four train. Norbert Gajus, 11, was killed. Douglas Gajus, John Peters and Harry Peters were seriously injured.

Residence Dynamited.

Marion, O., Feb. 27.—A charge of dynamite placed on the front porch at the home of Frank Niclosi, here, nearly wrecked the house and a store which he conducts in the structure. Niclosi, his wife and child escaped injury.

Infant Abandoned.

Alliance, O., Feb. 27.—May Lang and Chauncey Martin, both of Alliance, and Joseph Bagnaglia of Cleveland are under arrest following the discovery of an abandoned two-week-old baby in an automobile here.

Fell on the Ice.

London, O., Feb. 27.—Daniel Boyssel, 74, died from injuries to his spine received in a fall on the ice recently. He is survived by a widow, four daughters and one son.

Cox Indorsed.

Springfield, O., Feb. 27.—James M. Cox was unanimously indorsed for Democratic presidential nomination by the Seventh district Democratic congressional convention, held here. James E. Campbell was named as second choice.

Miss Louise Richards, 70, matron at the Indiana women's prison at Indianapolis, was found murdered in her room at the institution.

ADOPT GIFT TAX AMENDMENT

Solons Would Impose Maximum
Levy of 40 Per Cent.

HOUSE REVISING REVENUE BILL

Amendment Boosting Tax on Cigarets From $3 to $4 a Thousand Also Adopted by the House—Republican Leaders Still Seeking Compromise on Income Tax Rates—Hope to Defeat Garner Plan.

Washington, Feb. 27.—By a vote of 191 to 65, the house adopted the gift tax amendment to the revenue bill. The amendment was offered by Chairman Green of the ways and means committee and is designed to prevent tax dodging.

Green's amendment would impose a tax of 1 per cent on $50,000 gifts, increasing to 40 per cent on gifts of $10,000,000 and over. Gifts to charity are exempt under the amendment.

An amendment by Representative Garner (Dem., Tex.), increasing the tax on cigarettes from $3 to $4 a thousand, was adopted by the house by a vote of 117 to 85.

Division in-house progressive ranks opened the way to an eleventh hour compromise on the income tax rates in the new revenue bill. While Republican leaders said every effort would be made to get a compromise that would insure the passage of a "Republican" tax bill, they held out little hope of defeating the Garner plan written into the measure by the Democratic-Progressive coalition.

The treasury and postoffice departments appropriation bill was reported to the senate by the appropriations committee. The bill, carrying a total of $736,867,380, represented an addition of $6,916,430 over the measure as passed by the house. The largest single increases were $2,500,000 for the customs service and $1,000,000 for the internal revenue bureau. The total increase for the treasury was $4,040,680; the postoffice, $2,875,750.

A favorable report of a bill by Representative Fish (Rep., N. Y.), which would authorize an appropriation of $10,000,000 for the purchase in the United States of foodstuffs for relieving starving women and children of Germany, was ordered by the house foreign affairs committee.

In a letter addressed to members of congress, former Attorney General George W. Wickersham declared that passage of the immigration restriction bill now in committee in the house with the clause barring all peoples ineligible for citizenship, would be resented by Japan as a gratuitous act of unfriendly character.

Writing as chairman of the national committee on American-Japanese relations, Mr. Wickersham's letter says the bill would do away with the "gentleman's agreement" between the United States and Japan. If this is the end sought by congress, he suggests it should be approached through the state department. Wickersham declared that the Japanese government had administered the agreement with "careful fidelity."

TREASON TRIAL UNDER WAY

General Ludendorff and Eight Others Arraigned at Munich.

Munich, Bavaria, Feb. 27.—General Ludendorff, his stepson, Lieutenant Heinz Pernst, Adolf Hitler and seven former army officers and doctors are on trial here, charged with treason. Both Ludendorff and Hitler were warmly greeted when they entered the trial chamber. Ludendorff's bearing was proud and sneering, as though he ignored the somewhat ignominious position with which he was confronted.

The crime with which the prisoners are charged was of plotting against the state in that they led the "beer cellar" putsch that failed so completely Nov. 3, 1923.

Von Kahr, dictator of Bavaria, and General Lossow, head of the army, resigned last week. The defense will insist they co-operated in the putsch plans.

The defendants claim they were not guilty of treason, since they did not aim to separate Bavaria from the reich, but to establish a new form of government, namely a monarchy.

Former Official Paroled.

Columbus, Feb. 27.—C. C. Timberman, former safety director of Lorain, who was convicted of bribery, was released on parole from the penitentiary. He took the first train for Lorain.

WELD A MENACE

Conditions at Ohio Penitentiary Disturb Prison Officials.

Columbus, Feb. 27.—Penitentiary officials are expressing concern over present conditions at the big penal institution. They say that the number incarcerated in the penitentiary has so steadily increased, while housing conditions have been taxed beyond the limit, that the conditions are a menace to those who care for the prisoners. Officials point out that there are only 860 cells in the institution. Two men are housed in a cell in a double "bunk," thereby providing sleeping facilities for 1,720 men. Yesterday the official count of prisoners was 2,861, and with commitments so rapid that officials predicted the 3,000 mark not many days off. At the present time there are approximately 700 men in the idle house each day. It is here, they say, that much trouble can arise. They also point out 400 men are now being housed in the dormitory without being locked up. The matter of supplying bed for prisoners has become a perplexing problem. Many of the newly admitted have no place to sleep or anything to sleep on. Steps have been taken to supply these men with mattresses, but where to put the men and the mattresses is another matter.

Shortages Reported.

Columbus, Feb. 27.—State Examiner C. L. Lippencott, in a report of the examination of the Sebring waterworks filed in the state bureau of accounting, holds that Superintendent R. N. Robertson is short $3,874.75 in his accounts. Of this total shortage $1,701.38 has been reported in a previous examination covering the period of June 1, 1923, the examiner reported. Firman D. Hoffman, a trustee of German township, Montgomery county, is held to owe the township $664.25, collected by him as rent for the township hall, and also $205 paid out for janitor fees, in a report filed by Examiner J. S. Clifton.

STIR IN DIVORCE TRIAL

Wife Claims the Man Her Husband Named Is Her Father.

New York, Feb. 27.—A stir was caused in a courtroom here by the announcement that Mrs. Elaine Lee Harris was not the mistress of Eli Rainer, as her husband claims, but Rainer's daughter.

This declaration was made by George G. Battle, attorney for the former Memphis beauty, who is defending a suit for annulment of marriage brought by her husband, Beverly Harris, vice president of the National City bank. Harris' attorney, Camruthers Ewing of Memphis, told the jury that in the early days of the world war Mrs. Harris was traveling about with Eli Rainer, registering with him at hotels as his niece. He said Mrs. Harris met the banker and the couple were married in St. Louis in July, 1915. Ewing said he would show that Mrs. Harris had lived with Rainer and that she was actually the daughter of S. L. Lee.

Battle, Mrs. Harris' attorney, agreed that Mrs. Harris had traveled with Rainer. He said that her mother was a widow, whose husband had died eight years before Mrs. Harris' birth. The mother herself died a short time later. He explained that Rainer, to conceal her illegitimacy, had her grow up as his niece.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Suits Filed by Bus Men.

Columbus, Feb. 27.—S. A. Goble, operating motor buses between New Lexington and Columbus and between New Lexington and Newark, filed three suits in supreme court asking review of public utilities commission's ruling on his applications for certificates of convenience and necessity. Goble was denied a certificate to operate between Columbus and New Lexington and another bus line was permitted to operate over this route. He was given a certificate to operate between New Lexington and Newark, but was denied the right to take on passengers at Thornville or beyond for Newark.

New Churches Planned.

Cincinnati, Feb. 27.—More than $200,000,000 will be spent for church building in the United States during the present year, it was estimated at a conference here of representatives of church boards of architecture from throughout the country. Special stress was given to the necessity for scientifically graded Sunday schools and for the inclusion of social and recreational features in such buildings. The meeting was held under the direction of the home missions council.

Bell Orders Improvements.

Cleveland, Feb. 27.—Improvements to cost $2,600,000 were authorized by directors of the Ohio Bell Telephone company after the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 had been declared on preferred stock. The appropriation for additions and betterments brings the total authorized to date in 1924 to $5,600,000. No dividend was declared on the $28,500,000 common stock. President Charles P. Cooper said earnings were insufficient to warrant dividend action on this.

Boy Killed, Three Injured.

Springfield, O., Feb. 27.—One boy was killed here and three others are in a hospital from serious injuries received when the auto in which they were riding slid down a hill and collided with a Big Four train. Norbert Gajus, 11, was killed. Douglas Gajus, John Peters and Harry Peters were seriously injured.

Residence Dynamited.

Marion, O., Feb. 27.—A charge of dynamite placed on the front porch at the home of Frank Nicolosi, here, nearly wrecked the house and a store which he conducts in the structure. Nicolosi, his wife and child escaped injury.

Infant Abandoned.

Alliance, O., Feb. 27.—May Lang and Chauncey Martin, both of Alliance, and Joseph Baskagalia of Cleveland are under arrest following the discovery of an abandoned two-weeks-old baby in an automobile here.

Fell on the Ice.

London, O., Feb. 27.—Daniel Boyes, 74, died from injuries to his spine received in a fall on the ice recently. He is survived by a widow, four daughters and one son.

Cox Indorsed.

Springfield, O., Feb. 27.—James M. Cox was unanimously indorsed for Democratic presidential nomination by the Seventh district Democratic congressional convention, held here. James E. Campbell was named as second choice.

Miss Louise Richards, 70, matron at the Indiana women's prison at Indianapolis, was found murdered in her room at the institution.

ADOPT GIFT TAX AMENDMENT

Solons Would Impose Maximum Levy of 40 Per Cent.

HOUSE REVISING REVENUE BILL

Amendment Boosting Tax on Cigarettes From $3 to $4 a Thousand Also Adopted by the House—Republican Leaders Still Seeking Compromise on Income Tax Rates—Hope to Defeat Garner Plan.

Washington, Feb. 27.—By a vote of 191 to 65, the house adopted the gift tax amendment to the revenue bill. The amendment was offered by Chairman Green of the ways and means committee and is designed to prevent tax dodging.

Green's amendment would impose a tax of 1 per cent on $50,000 gifts, increasing to 40 per cent on gifts of $10,000,000 and over. Gifts to charity are exempt under the amendment.

An amendment by Representative Garner (Dem., Tex.), increasing the tax on cigarettes from $3 to $4 a thousand, was adopted by the house by a vote of 117 to 85.

Division in house progressive ranks opened the way to an eleventh hour compromise on the income tax rates in the new revenue bill. While Republican leaders said every effort would be made to get a compromise that would insure the passage of a "Republican" tax bill, they held out little hope of defeating the Garner plan written into the measure by the Democratic-Progressive coalition.

The treasury and postoffice departments appropriation bill was reported to the senate by the appropriations committee. The bill, carrying a total of $736,867,380, represented an addition of $6,916,430 over the measure as passed by the house. The largest single increases were $2,500,000 for the customs service and $1,000,000 for the internal revenue bureau. The total increase for the treasury was $4,040,650; the postoffice, $2,875,750.

A favorable report of a bill by Representative Fish (Rep., N. Y.), which would authorize an appropriation of $10,000,000 for the purchase in the United States of foodstuffs for relieving starving women and children of Germany, was ordered by the house foreign affairs committee.

In a letter addressed to members of congress, former Attorney General George W. Wickersham declared that passage of the immigration restriction bill now in committee in the house with the clause barring all peoples ineligible for citizenship, would be resented by Japan as a gratuitous act of unfriendly character. Writing as chairman of the national committee on American-Japanese relations, Mr. Wickersham's letter says the bill would do away with the "gentleman's agreement" between the United States and Japan. If this is the end sought by congress, he suggests it should be approached through the state department. Wickersham declared that the Japanese government had administered the agreement with "careful fidelity."

TREASON TRIAL UNDER WAY

General Ludendorff and Eight Others Arraigned at Munich.

Munich, Bavaria, Feb. 27.—General Ludendorff, his stepson, Lieutenant Heinz Pernst; Adolph Hitler and seven former army officers and doctors are on trial here, charged with treason.

Both Ludendorff and Hitler were warmly greeted when they entered the trial chamber. Ludendorff's bearing was proud and sneering, as though he ignored the somewhat ignominious position with which he was confronted.

The crime with which the prisoners are charged was of plotting against the state in that they led the "beer cellar" putsch that failed so completely Nov. 3, 1923.

Von Kahr, dictator of Bavaria, and General Lossow, head of the army, resigned last week. The defense will insist they co-operated in the putsch plans.

The defendants claim they were not guilty of treason, since they did not aim to separate Bavaria from the reich, but to establish a new form of government, namely a monarchy.

Former Official Paroled.

Columbus, Feb. 27.—C. C. Timberman, former safety director of Lorain, who was convicted of bribery, was released on parole from the penitentiary. He took the first train for Lorain.

HELD A MENACE

Conditions at Ohio Penitentiary Disturb Prison Officials.

Columbus, Feb. 27.—Penitentiary officials are expressing concern over present conditions at the big penal institution. They say that the number incarcerated in the penitentiary has so steadily increased, while housing conditions have been taxed beyond the limit, that the conditions are a menace to those who care for the prisoners. Officials point out that there are only 860 cells in the institution. Two men are housed in a cell in a double "bunk," thereby providing sleeping facilities for 1,720 men. Yesterday the official count of prisoners was 2,861, and with commitments so rapid that officials predicted the 3,000 mark not many days off. At the present time there are approximately 700 men in the idle house each day. It is here, they say, that much trouble can arise. They also point out 400 men are now being housed in the dormitory without being locked up. The matter of supplying bed for prisoners has become a perplexing problem. Many of the newly admitted have no place to sleep or anything to sleep on. Steps have been taken to supply these men with mattresses, but where to put the men and the mattresses is another matter.

Shortages Reported.

Columbus, Feb. 27.—State Examiner C. L. Lippencott, in a report of the examination of the Sebring waterworks filed in the state bureau of accounting, holds that Superintendent R. N. Robertson is short $2,874.75 in his accounts. Of this total shortage, $1,701.38 has been reported in a previous examination covering the period of June 1, 1923, the examiner reported. Firman D. Hoffman, a trustee of German township, Montgomery county, is held to owe the township $664.25, collected by him as rent for the township hall, and also $205 paid out for janitor fees, in a report filed by Examiner J. S. Clifton.

STIR IN DIVORCE TRIAL

Wife Claims the Man Her Husband Named Is Her Father.

New York, Feb. 27.—A stir was caused in a courtroom here by the announcement that Mrs. Elaine Lee Harris was not the mistress of Eli Rainer, as her husband claims, but Rainer's daughter.

This declaration was made by George G. Battle, attorney for the former Memphis beauty, who is defending a suit for annulment of marriage brought by her husband, Beverly Harris, vice president of the National City bank. Harris' attorney, Carruthers Ewing of Memphis, told the jury that in the early days of the world war Mrs. Harris was traveling about with Eli Rainer, registering with him at hotels as his niece. He said Mrs. Harris met the banker and the couple were married in St. Louis in July, 1915. Ewing said he would show that Mrs. Harris had lived with Rainer and that she was actually the daughter of S. L. Lee.

Battle, Mrs. Harris' attorney, agreed that Mrs. Harris had traveled with Rainer. He said that her mother was a widow, whose husband had died eight years before Mrs. Harris' birth. The mother herself died a short time later. He explained that Rainer, to conceal her illegitimacy, had her grow up as his niece.

Peculiar Superstitions.

No one can give any reason why a horseshoe is considered lucky. The original belief was that it kept out witches. A novel wart cure is the placing of a number of pebbles in a bag, corresponding with the number of warts. The warts are supposed to disappear when the bag is thrown away, and the person who finds the bag is expected to find the warts as well.

Conversation.

This business of conversation is a very serious matter. There are men that it weakens one to talk with an hour more than a day's fasting would do. Mark this that I am going to say, for it is as good as a working professional man's advice, and costs you nothing: It is better to lose a pint of blood from your veins than to have a nerve tapped. Nobody measures your nervous force as it runs away, nor bandages your brain and marrow after the operation.

Care of Leather in Wet Weather Urged

Especially True in Late Winter and Spring Months.

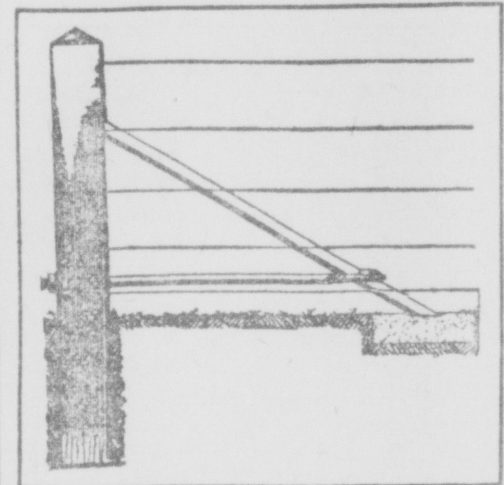

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

"The care of your leather equipment at all times, but especially during the wet winter and spring months," is the recommendation of the leather experts of the bureau of chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture. Farmers are the largest users of leather and they are vitally concerned in lengthening its life. Harness, for instance, of the proper weight and grade for the work required, should last fifteen to twenty-five years if it is not allowed to become hard or harsh, but is kept smooth and flexible by frequent washing and oiling, and has been known to last forty years.

The specialists recommend that harness be washed with tepid water and castile soap, rinsed in tepid water, and hung up to dry. While still moist, should be oiled well with neat's-foot oil or castor oil with a mixture of either with wool grease. Driving belts, machine belts and other leather articles used by the farmer will also respond to this preservative treatment with increased serviceability and money will be saved that would otherwise have to be spent in replacing them if neglected.

Grease the children's shoes and waterproof the soles so that dampness cannot enter. Then it will no longer be necessary to deny children the pleasures of outdoor life during winter and spring because of the possible danger of colds from wet feet. Formulas for making boots and shoes water resistant have been prepared by the department.

Pure Bred Sires of One Breed Give Best Results

No hard and fast rules can be laid down as to how and where to buy good herd sires. It is a good plan for the beginner to get the advice and assistance of an experienced judge before making a purchase. Not every pure bred or registered sire is a good one; culls appear in the best herds. Most county agents and high school agricultural teachers are good stock judges, or at least have sufficient knowledge of breeds and herds to enable them to render valuable assistance in selecting stock. The better class of breeders will assist a new man to get a start by giving him good value for his money.

Pure bred sires give best results when always of one breed. Judicious cross-breeding may give good results for market feeding, but when cross-bred females are saved for breeding purposes their offspring do not have that uniformity of type and form that is so desirable in market stock. This is only obtained by continuing one line of breeding.

Tomato Fertilizer Tests Give Convincing Results

Results of three years' work with fertilizers on tomatoes have just been published by the New Jersey experiment station. Yields produced with 21 different complete fertilizers, each containing a total of over 16 per cent plant food (ammonia, phosphoric acid and potash) were compared with each other and with yields of unfertilized tomatoes. The fertilizer was applied at the rate of 1,000 pounds per acre, 400 pounds several days before planting and the balance three weeks after planting.

During the three-year period, the combined average yield of the seven highest yielding plots was 12 tons of tomatoes per acre, 4.8 tons more than the average yield of the unfertilized tomatoes. All things considered, a 2-8-6 fertilizer proved the most economical under the conditions governing the test.

Soy Beans Not Superior to Alfalfa as Hay Crop

While soy beans should not be considered superior to alfalfa for hay, they may be regarded as a most excellent catch crop to be seeded in the spring in places where clover or alfalfa have winterkilled, or to be grown where other legumes have not been seeded the year before. Then, too, soy beans will grow on and that is slightly sour and not well adapted for the legumes that are especially susceptible to soil acidity.

Lies.
Many tell lies in order to deceive us, and many because they themselves are deceived. Some seek to win our favor by false accusations and invent wrongs in order that they may appear angry at our having suffered them. One man lies out of spite that he may set trusting friends at variance; some because they are suspicious and wish to see sport and watch from a safe distance those whom they have set by the ears.—Lucius Annaeus Seneca.

Utilizing Pea-Pod Fiber.
The fiber of pea-pods is separated for industrial use in a process covered by a recent patent. The outer layer is dissolved away by fermentation or by treatment with hot water or steam, the inner fibrous layer being left in a form adapted for spinning or utilization in other ways. The solution of the outer layer, containing sugar, is not necessarily a waste, as it can be made to serve some such purposes as preparing marmalade.

Blouse and Cape Liked by Women
Garments Among Features in the Tailored and Sports Wear.

Tailored suits are emphasized. These are almost always with the blouse in harmony but separate. Many charming models are in the so-called sports-wear style. A new idea, notes a fashion correspondent in the New York Tribune, is to have a separate collar or scarf to match the suit in fabric and color.
Deauville, a lovely model in white, has a blouse made from a printed silk shawl. A suit of white wool crepe has a finely plaited skirt and a blouse-coat of yellow bure. Accompanying this is a blouse of yellow tussah printed in lovely tones of yellow with black and white relief. "Discretion" is a three-piece suit the dress of which is of white serge trimmed with navy blue and red. The coat is bright red frilled, a new, nappy-surfaced, silky-looking material.
Red and white are featured in a costume of three-piece effect, with wrap in cape style, the latter lined with a red printed crepe de chine and the simple, straight dress of white with colorful printed trimmings.
"Golf" is a very sporty looking model in homespun Shetland wool, with a plain skirt and sweater blouse. Another interesting effect is achieved in a knitted suit in wool chinee, showing a blend of navy yellow and castor yarns.
Important for out-of-door wear are dresses and coats of rubberized crepe de chine in lovely shades, such as sage green, primrose yellow and rose violet. Sometimes these dresses are reversible and in two shades.

There also are several models made of suede and dressed leathers, notably in bright red and deep rust color. Leather and rubberized crepe de chine are combined in some of the novelty sports coats.

Novelty Woolens All Rage for Top Coats

Whether you plan to travel or to remain at home, a good-looking top coat is a very worth-while possession. The new spring models are as practical as they are attractive.
In the first place novelty woolens are all the rage. Never have there been so many delightful colors and patterns to choose from. Time was when a coat was a garment primarily for warmth. Usually it was of some dark material, well cut but always on conventional lines.
Now a coat must be jaunty or it isn't in the running, and the owner feels rather out of it if an admiring friend can say, "Your coat is stunning. It's such-and-such material, isn't it?"
For if you're wearing a really up-to-the-minute model it'll be, "What a charming wrap! But do tell me what the material is. I could never guess. Haven't seen anything like it."
Then you can know that your top coat is really all that it should be and you can murmur, "My dear, it's one of the novelty woolens," with a detached air that doesn't give away at all how pleased you are that your modiste never misses the newest innovations.

Old Styles Made Smart.
The revival of the fashions and fabrics of the 'eighties and 'nineties is the latest trend of dress. The curious thing is that while these periods suggest dowdiness and dullness, the new spring gowns inspired by them are charming.

Stylish Sleeves.
Sleeves can't be too long these days. When they have gone as far as they dare with the material, they are quite apt to add frills of lace or chiffon. The other extreme, of course, is to eliminate the sleeve entirely.

East Indian's Discovery.

Lies.
Many tell lies in order to deceive us, and many because they themselves are deceived. Some seek to win our favor by false accusations and invent wrongs in order that they may appear angry at our having suffered them. One man lies out of spite that he may set trusting friends at variance; some because they are suspicious and wish to see sport and watch from a safe distance those whom they have set by the ears.—Lucius Annaeus Seneca.

Utilizing Pea-Pod Fiber.
The fiber of pea-pods is separated for industrial use in a process covered by a recent patent. The outer layer is dissolved away by fermentation or by treatment with hot water or steam, the inner fibrous layer being left in a form adapted for spinning or utilization in other ways. The solution of the outer layer, containing sugar, is not necessarily a waste, as it can be made to serve some such purposes as preparing marmalade.

Blouse and Cape Liked by Women

Garments Among Features in the Tailored and Sports Wear.

Tailored suits are emphasized. These are almost always with the blouse in harmony but separate. Many charming models are in the so-called sports-wear style. A new idea, notes a fashion correspondent in the New York Tribune, is to have a separate collar or scarf to match the suit in fabric and color.

Deauville, a lovely model in white, has a blouse made from a printed silk shawl. A suit of white wool crepe has a finely plaited skirt and a blouse-coat of yellow bure. Accompanying this is a blouse of yellow tussah printed in lovely tones of yellow with black and white relief. "Discretion" is a three-piece suit the dress of which is of white serge trimmed with navy blue and red. The coat is bright red fringed, a new, nappy-surfaced, silky-looking material.

Red and white are featured in a costume of three-piece effect, with wrap in cape style, the latter lined with a red printed crepe de chine and the simple, straight dress of white with colorful printed trimmings.

"Golf" is a very sporty looking model in homespun Shetland wool, with a plain skirt and sweater blouse. Another interesting effect is achieved in a knitted suit in wool chinee, showing a blend of navy yellow and castor yarns.

Important for out-of-door wear are dresses and coats of rubberized crepe de chine in lovely shades, such as sage green, primrose yellow and rose violet. Sometimes these dresses are reversible and in two shades.

There also are several models made of suede and dressed leathers, notably in bright red and deep rust color. Leather and rubberized crepe de chine are combined in some of the novelty sports coats.

Novelty Woolens All Rage for Top Coats

Whether you plan to travel or to remain at home, a good-looking top coat is a very worth-while possession. The new spring models are as practical as they are attractive.

In the first place novelty woolens are all the rage. Never have there been so many delightful colors and patterns to choose from. Time was when a coat was a garment primarily for warmth. Usually it was of some dark material, well cut but always on conventional lines.

Now a coat must be jaunty or it isn't in the running, and the owner feels rather out of it if an admiring friend can say, "Your coat is stunning. It's such-and-such material, isn't it?"

For if you're wearing a really up-to-the-minute model it'll be, "What a charming wrap! But do tell me what the material is. I could never guess. Haven't seen anything like it."

Then you can know that your top coat is really all that it should be and you can murmur, "My dear, it's one of the novelty woolens," with a detached air that doesn't give away at all how pleased you are that your modiste never misses the newest innovations.

Old Styles Made Smart.
The revival of the fashions and fabrics of the 'eighties and 'nineties is the latest trend of dress. The curious thing is that while these periods suggest dowdiness and dullness, the new spring gowns inspired by them are charming.

Stylish Sleeves.
Sleeves can't be too long these days. When they have gone as far as they dare with the material, they are quite apt to add frills of lace or chiffon. The other extreme, of course, is to eliminate the sleeve entirely.

Bridal Cakes.

The bride cake which so invariably accompanies a wedding nowadays and which must always be cut by the bride, may be traced back to the old Roman form of marriage by "conferatio," or eating together. So also among the Iroquois the bride and bridegroom used to partake together of the cake of Sagamite which the bride always offered to her husband.

NONEGENARIAN

Henry R. Heffner Celebrated His Ninetieth Birthday Anniversary.

Ninety years ago today there came into being a boy, Henry Riegel Heffner, who is passing the winter of his life pleasantly at his home in this city, corner of Watt and Pickaway streets.

He celebrated the event today surrounded by his friends and relatives and bids fair to live a number of years. Seven years ago he retired from active business, owing to impaired health, but for the past year he has not been under a doctor's care and takes no medicine. Altho physically unable to walk without assistance, his general health is good and he bids fair to live a number of years.

Henry R. Heffner was born in Fairfield county in 1834 and was a son of Henry and Elizabeth Riegel Heffner, sturdy pioneers, who came to this state from Pennsylvania. One brother and two sisters are living in this city. They are William Heffner, of East Mound street; Kate, widow of the late James Hall, and Samantha, wife of Lyman Hammel, who lives at the corner of Court and High streets.

The grain and milling interests of this county are closely associated with the name of the Heffner family, and in fact the history of the milling interests would be of little interest without association with the name of this family.

In his day Mr. Heffner, the subject of this sketch was one of the best known grain men in the country. He loves to tell of days gone by when corn was selling at eighteen cents and hard to sell at that price. He had the backbone to buy corn at that price and loaded up every building he could find and ordered every car he could get railroads to turn over to him. The railroad sidings were full of cars of corn. What is he going to do with it, was the question. People thought that Mr. Heffner had lost his senses, but he kept on buying and stretched his credit in the banks as far as it would go. When the market fluctuated and the price began to soar Mr. Heffner kept his own counsel. His friends tried to get him to sell but he did not and when corn doubled in price, he unloaded making a nice profit. This was the foundation of the Heffner fortune.

After being in the grain business for over fifty years with his brother, William Heffner, and in later years with his two nephews, Harvey S. and W. Frank Heffner, he retired.

In 1856, he married Miss Sarah A. Brobst, daughter of Daniel Brobst, who died in 1907. The couple for a number of years took great interest in the Home and Hospital. They were really the members of the board that placed this institution on its feet and lived to see it a success.

PERSONALS

Miss Martha Stevenson spent the day in Columbus.

Lee T. Shaner was a business visitor in Columbus today.

A. M. Sullivan was a business visitor in Columbus today.

Knew Her Place.

Mrs. Newrich (to applicant as chauffeur)—Y'r all right except your name. My chauffeur's name must be 'James,' like in all the society novels I've read.—Judge.

PETITIONS

Signed by Citizens and Taxpayers in Favor of the Elks' Fair.

To the Mayor of the City of Circleville and all other Law Officers of said City and of Pickaway County.

We, the undersigned, Citizens and Taxpayers of the City of Circleville, do hereby petition you and your Officers and all other Law Officers of Pickaway county, not to in any way interfere with the progress of the Elks' fair as now planned; we consider that said fair will be properly conducted and we are in accord with the carrying out of the fair as planned; while the letter of the law might be technically violated, yet the spirit of all law will be observed.

Said Lodge has constructed a magnificent Home in our city, and its members are all enterprising citizens of our city and county and we feel that the lodge should be encouraged in the endeavor to do something for themselves and for our city instead of being persecuted for an apparent wrong-doing.

AMUSEMENTS

The dynamiting of a cliff which caused thousands of tons of rocks and debris to fall nearly 1000 feet, is one of the most spectacular scenes of "To the Last Man," a Paramount picture coming to the Met theater Wednesday. Five cameras photographed the explosion from different angles, the camera men remaining at their posts until the last moment before running for shelter from falling stones. The face of the famous "Rim" was blown away by the force of 50 pounds of exploding dynamite and hundreds of trees were carried down in the crash.

Lois Wilson in the Paramount Picture
"To the Last Man"

The explosion is a sequence in the picture showing the wiping out of a band of cattlemen by cattle thieves. The avalanche closes the entrance to a canyon and kills all but one member of the band.

"To the Last Man" is a Zane Grey production based on the author's famous story of the Pleasant Valley War, a feud of the late eighties, which was fought out literally to the last man. The historic sites of these battles were filmed in making the picture. Besides Richard Dix and Lois Wilson, the principal players are Noah Beery, Robert Edson and Frank Campeau.

Bridal Cakes.

The bride cake which so invariably accompanies a wedding nowadays and which must always be cut by the bride, may be traced back to the old Roman form of marriage by "conferreatio," or eating together. So also among the Trojans the bride and bridegroom used to partake together of the cake of Sagamite which the bride always offered to her husband.

NONEGENARIAN

Henry R. Heffner Celebrated His Ninetieth Birthday Anniversary.

Ninety years ago today there came into being a boy, Henry Riegel Heffner, who is passing the winter of his life pleasantly at his home in this city, corner of Watt and Pickaway streets.

He celebrated the event today surrounded by his friends and relatives and bids fair to live a number of years. Seven years ago he retired from active business, owing to impaired health, but for the past year he has not been under a doctor's care and takes no medicine. Altho physically unable to walk without assistance, his general health is good and he bids fair to live a number of years.

Henry R. Heffner was born in Fairfield county in 1834 and was a son of Henry and Elizabeth Riegel Heffner, sturdy pioneers, who came to this state from Pennsylvania. One brother and two sisters are living in this city. They are William Heffner, of East Mount street; Kate, widow of the late James Hall, and Samantha, wife of Lyman Hammel, who lives at the corner of Court and High streets.

The grain and milling interests of this county are closely associated with the name of the Heffner family, and in fact the history of the milling interests would be of little interest without association with the name of this family.

In his day Mr. Heffner, the subject of this sketch was one of the best known grain men in the country. He loves to tell of days gone by when corn was selling at eighteen cents and hard to sell at that price. He had the backbone to buy corn at that price and loaded up every building he could find and ordered every car he could get railroads to turn over to him. The railroad sidings were full of cars of corn. What is he going to do with it, was the question. People thought that Mr. Heffner had lost his senses, but he kept on buying and stretched his credit in the banks as far as it would go. When the market fluctuated and the price began to soar Mr. Heffner kept his own counsel. His friends tried to get him to sell but he did not and when corn doubled in price, he unloaded making a nice profit. This was the foundation of the Heffner fortune.

After being in the grain business for over fifty years with his brother, William Heffner, and in later years with his two nephews, Harvey S. and W. Frank Heffner, he retired.

In 1856, he married Miss Sarah A. Brobst, daughter of Daniel Brobst, who died in 1907. The couple for a number of years took great interest in the Home and Hospital. They were really the members of the board that placed this institution on its feet and lived to see it a success.

PETITIONS

Signed by Citizens and Taxpayers in Favor of the Elks' Fair.

To the Mayor of the City of Circleville and all other Law Officers of said City and of Pickaway County.

We, the undersigned, Citizens and Taxpayers of the City of Circleville, do hereby petition you and your Officers and all other Law Officers of Pickaway county, not to in any way interfere with the progress of the Elks' fair as now planned; we consider that said fair will be properly conducted and we are in accord with the carrying out of the fair as planned; while the letter of the law might be technically violated, yet the spirit of all law will be observed.

Said Lodge has constructed a magnificent Home in our city, and its members are all enterprising citizens of our city and county and we feel that the lodge should be encouraged in the endeavor to do something for themselves and for our city instead of being persecuted for an apparent wrong-doing.

The explosion is a sequence in the picture showing the wiping out of a band of cattlemen by cattle thieves. The avalanche closes the entrance to a canyon and kills all but one member of the band.

"To the Last Man" is a Zane Grey production based on the author's famous story of the Pleasant Valley War, a feud of the late eighties, which was fought out literally to the last man. The historic sites of these battles were filmed in making the picture. Besides Richard Dix and Lois Wilson, the principal players are Noah Beery, Robert Edeson and Frank Campeau.

THE freight service which was performed by the Pennsylvania Railroad System
last year was equivalent to carrying one ton about
55,000,000,000 miles.
It was the greatest amount of service this or any other railroad was ever called upon to render.
It necessitated the handling of 8,600,000 loaded freight cars—about 17 per cent. of all the freight cars loaded in the United States.

If the loaded freight cars moved over the Pennsylvania Railroad System last year were made in a single train it would be about 70,000 miles long—nearly enough to go around the world three times.

THE freight service which was performed by the last year was equivalent to

carrying one ton about
55,000,000,000 miles.

It was the greatest amount

It necessitated the handling

all the freight cars loaded in

If the loaded freight cars moved over the Pennsylvania

it would be about 70,000 miles long—nearly enough to Anne Boleyn's Clock.

The weights of a clock at Windsor castle bear on them "The Most Happy," and the clock is further inscribed with the motto, "Dieu et mon droit," and the letters "H. A." entwined in true-lovers' knots. This exquisitely-made clock—only four inches deep and ten inches high—was a gift from Henry VIII to Anne Boleyn on her wedding day. It was in the possession of Horace Walpole, and Queen Victoria paid $551 for it when the contents of Strawberry Hill were sold in 1842.

Modernized Grammar.
The teacher of a New Hampshire school was one day examining a few of her select pupils in grammar. "Stand up, Johnnie, and make me a sentence containing the word 'seldom,'" she said, pointing to a small boy. Johnnie paused as if in thought, then with a flush of triumph on his face, replied: "Last week father had five horses, but yesterday he seldom!" —Boston Post.

THE DULL GRAY THREEDeckERS

By DORA MOLLAN

MARY closed the outside door behind her, the door which the Deans shared with two other families. It was the ugly gray door of an ugly gray house. As Mary walked down the steep grade of the sidewalk she passed, at regular intervals, other houses as like it as peas in a pod. They cluttered the hill like a litter of huge dingy packing-cases. One hundred, the specifications had called for, three stories high and housing six families each. There were no trees—roots damage walks; no vines—vines "rot wood." Some one had named the hill "Threedeckerdome," and the name stuck. It was the housing development of the Bates Loom works where Mary's father worked—and Mary hated it.

Mary had made plans to pull herself free from this environment, into which she had been born, before her roots took firm hold; and, as the appointed day drew near she found her courage weakening. After all, it meant leaving her father and mother—and Eddie. It was to strengthen her resolution that Mary had set out on that Saturday afternoon's walk.

At the foot of the hill lay a yet more densely populated neighborhood, a section of ancient, dirty houses bulging with children. Here Mary felt the impulse to hug still closer to her slender self the scanty folds of her blue frock.

Now straight ahead loomed a steep hill, crowned with a stately tower of stone modeled after a medieval castle to honor the memory of a famous man. Mary found the beginning of a dirt path at the foot of the hill and followed its winding rise to the top. Before her stood the tower; below her lay the city.

Gaining the battlemented observation platform, whence a spiral stairway led to the tip-top of the tower, Mary paused for a moment's rest. With her back to the city she looked first at the distant mountains. Beyond them, where the sun was already slipping, lay the city where she would find work and begin the struggle for the things she craved.

A sound from below intruded on Mary's thoughts. Footsteps on the stone stairway! Should she hurry to the top, or start down? The October twilight would be short. Yet, if she should start down now she must pass him—for Mary felt sure it was a man.

The footsteps sounded on the last flight of steps now; still Mary stood irresolute.

"Eddie Morrissey!" Relief made Mary's cry one of joyful welcome—and yet, ten minutes before she would have desired anything but his coming.

"Mary! I thought I would find you here! Why is it, Mary? Some force seems to draw me straight to you!" Eddie was a slightly built boy with dreamy brown eyes. He spoke the name, "Mary," as though it were the word he loved best.

"Eddie, don't—please! I want to go to the top just for a few minutes. Eddie, alone. Then we will walk home together."

"That stairway is narrow and steep, Mary; better let me go with you," Eddie persisted. So together they climbed to the very top of the tower. As Mary looked down she felt that dizziness which comes of a great height; felt that horrible desire to fling herself out into space; to fall down—down— She closed her eyes. Her body swayed. Then came Eddie's steady hand on her arm and again she was glad he had come.

Mary opened her eyes to the glory of the setting sun. Now was the time to carry out her purpose in coming to the tower. She must turn from that miracle of color in the western sky to the clutter of dull gray threedeckers. On the top of this tower hate of their ugliness had first been born in her; here she would clinch her resolution to leave them forever.

But Eddie was a disturbing factor! Emboldened, he was slipping an arm around her waist. He was speaking, and the word "love" occurred often. She couldn't find it in her heart to rebuke him, for surely his years of devotion deserved one memory. It dimmed the clearness of her vision. Mary felt herself drifting into a great peace and content there, on the top of the world, alone with Eddie. It was an anesthesia from which she must arouse herself, for marrying Eddie would mean staying on the desecrated hill of drab tenement houses.

So Mary turned her eyes toward the east and saw—a reflection of the sunset, all pastel grays and pinks and blues! She saw a thin, nebulous mist enshrouding the hill—and gasped at the sheer beauty of it all. For behind that translucent curtain lay, not a cluster of dingy domiciles, but a cluster of fairy castles of smoked pearl, opalescent and mysterious in their shadowy outline!

Eddie's arm tightened around Mary's waist and somehow Mary's head found the hollow in Eddie's shoulder that had been made for it. And right there, somehow, Mary forgot all about going away. Eddie was saying something about not working in the mill all his life; and something about some day building a little house with a green roof for Mary.

But Mary wasn't really listening—there were already fairy castles, over there, in Threedeckerdome.

Ancient Idea of Comets.
Ancient peoples, puzzled by these awe-inspiring phenomena, proclaimed that "comets are composed of the sins of mortals, which, ascending to the sky, and so coming to the notice of God, are set on fire by his wrath." This interpretation of comets, though convenient for making people more religious, was not otherwise valuable. By 1650 A. D. a good deal was known about the laws governing them.

Origin of Pensions.
The practice of pensioning or insuring sick and wounded soldiers is said to have been started in England by Oliver Cromwell.

BRUCE'S CHARIOT WRITES HISTORY

Bruce's chariot writes its own history with 18 steel pens as it races along the country roads. The apparatus has just been completed by C. S. Bruce of the bureau of standards and automatically registers everything that happens to the car on a run, including speed, wind velocity, rate at which the car gathers speed and slow downs. It also has a camera underneath which snaps pictures automatically of the flow of gas. Photograph shows Bruce in his chariot.

BRAKES DEMAND BEST OF CARE

Most Economical Plan to Leave Car in High Gear on Down Grade.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

The upkeep and endurance of an automobile is entirely up to the car owner. In the proportion as intelligent manipulation and care is used so is the life of the car lengthened.

For instance, when going down hill, keeping the brakes applied when it is not necessary causes the brakes to burn and lose their resistance. Again, shifting the gears before the clutch stops revolving does damage. Stopping the car suddenly or starting with a jerk are things that will soon reduce a car in value and hurry it to the junk pile.

Hardly a trip is made that the driver does not smell burnt brake lining, either on his or some one else's car. This is noticed especially on steep grades.

Burning brakes can be avoided, no matter what condition the road. Moreover it is neither safe nor economical to retard the car with its brakes when descending a hill. Leave the car in high gear and if the compression does not retard it enough, shift to second or first as the case may be. This will hold the car back with little or no wear on the engine.

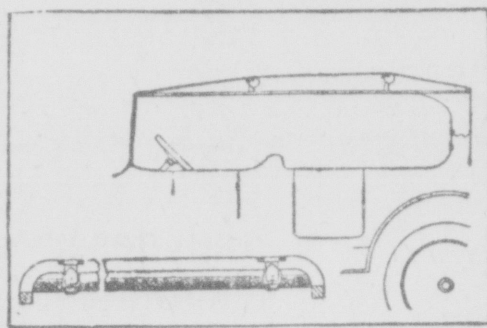

Some car drivers shut off the ignition when leaving the engine in gear going down a hill, believing it saves gas and also holds the car back better. This is a mistake. The butterfly valve in the carburetor is always open enough when the throttle is closed to permit the engine to idle. Therefore when the engine turns over it sucks up gas into the explosion chambers. If the ignition is off and the gas not ignited the gas accumulates in the exhaust pipe and loads the muffler with fumes. When the ignition is turned on again, this gas ignites all at once, possibly causing an explosion which blows the muffler to pieces.

Leave the ignition on under all road conditions and save gas in so doing.

Bow Protector Tends to Prevent Injury

The Scientific American in illustrating and describing a bow protector for automobile tops, the invention of T. H. Murphy, L. S. Isbell and E. W. Sawyer of North Anson, Me., says:

Among the objects of the invention

is to provide a safety device in the form of a cushion protecting means for the bow of a top of an automobile whereby to avoid possible injury, should an occupant of the rear seat be thrown upwardly and strike his head upon the bow. The device comprises a casing which may be inflated, and is adapted to be fitted upon the lower side of the bridge portion of the bow.

Large Washer Helps in Transferring Oil

The tipping over of the funnel while filling the gasoline tank or pouring oil into engine bases through breather pipes results with loss of oil unless the funnel is held with one hand, in which instance the person pouring is under a handicap. A simple modification to the funnel consists in soldering a large washer over the spout. With the washer secured to the funnel it will rest upright on the gas tank opening or on the breather pipes, permitting the use of both hands for tipping the oil can.

Every 1,000 Miles—

Lubricate steering gear, universal joints and break linkages. Tighten bolts and nuts, such as spring clips and body bolts, and replace missing cotter pins. Wipe out collection of carbon dust in the ignition distributor and carefully oil the circuit breaker directly beneath.

Tighten or replace worn clips on demountable rims, and have badly worn out or cut tires replaced, as they may blow out and cause a bad skid.

Inspect brakes, jack up the rear axle and test the clearance of the bands. The lining should be free from oil, dirt and glaze and the bands so adjusted as to give the brakes an even, steady and certain application.

Fill Radiator With Old Sprinkling Can

Filling stations and garages make a practice of filling radiators with an ordinary sprinkling can which makes a convenient receptacle for handling water but does not lend itself for the purpose intended. In filling the radiator considerable water is usually wasted owing to the inconvenience in handling the can. To eliminate this difficulty an ordinary pipe ell can be soldered to the spout of the sprinkling can and thus direct the water into the radiator regardless of the angle at which it may be necessary to hold the can.—Automobile Digest.

Wooden Wedge Handy in Examining Tires

When examining the inside of a casing for a puncture, fabric break or weak spot most of us try to force the beads apart with both hands, supporting the tire meanwhile upon our shoulder as best we can. This task may be enormously lightened by using a wedge made of a substantial bit of wood three-quarters of an inch thick and three to five inches long, according to the size of the tire. This wedge is slipped between the beads and pulled around the circumference of the casing with one hand, while the other hand is free to hold the tire.

Progressive Tightening.

In tightening opposed nuts, such as those holding the bearing caps in place, one nut should be drawn up a little and then the opposite one tightened a little. It is wrong to tighten one nut fully and then proceed with the other, as this method tends to spring the metal and cause poor contact.

AUTOMOBILE GOSSIP

In France medical tests are necessary before a driver of a motorcar can get a license.

A rear axle should be cleaned every 5,000 miles or less. To do this, drain out all old oil first.

When a man wants an open car and the wife wants a sedan the argument, as a rule, ends in a closed incident.

Did you know that a gallon of motor oil lubricates 1,000,000 square feet of cylinder area in an automobile before it is completely burned?

A motorist who uses overalls to work around a car should remove or cover all unnecessary buttons. This will prevent scratching the fenders or body.

Feed a teaspoonful of graphite into the engine through the inlet while the engine is running, but be sure to use only the best graphite. The "treatment" will do wonders.

Mud and dirt that have become hardened in the cells of the radiator should never be removed with wire or a tool. The thin cell walls are easily ruptured and small leaks in the radiator invariably result.

The Weeping Mice.

A friend of mine was engaging a cook lately, and inquired why she had left a certain place. "I couldn't stop there, madam," was the reply. "I don't mind rations, and I believe I'm economical, but in that house they were so saving that the very mice used to run about with tears in their eyes."

Real Drama is "To the Last Man" a Paramount Picture With Lois Wilson and Richard Dix Supported by Frank Campeau, Robert Edeson, Noah Beery A Picturization of Zane Grey's Famous Novel

Zane Grey's world-famed novel "To the Last Man" tells the story of a historic feud in Arizona. The picture version was filmed in that country under the supervision of the author and it constitutes an epic of Tonto Basin that will go far to convince the world that the romance of the vanishing frontier is imperishable. It is a screen masterpiece.

European Flowers.
An authority on botany estimates that the number of species of flowers cultivated in Europe is 4,800, of which 420 possess an agreeable perfume. Odors are most likely to be found in flowers, having white or cream-colored petals, then yellow, red, blue or violet in order.

Oil Produces Life's Necessaries.
It has been said that every possible necessity of a man's life, save the water he drinks and the air he breathes, may be supplied, either directly or indirectly, through the use of petroleum products, and even water may be pumped by a gasoline engine.

BRUCE'S CHARIOT WRITES HISTORY

Bruce's chariot writes its own history with 18 steel pens as it races along the country roads. The apparatus has just been completed by C. S. Bruce of the bureau of standards and automatically registers everything that happens to the car on a run, including speed, wind velocity, rate at which the car gathers speed and slow downs. It also has a camera underneath which snaps pictures automatically of the flow of gas. Photograph shows Bruce in his chariot.

BRAKES DEMAND BEST OF CARE

Most Economical Plan to Leave Car in High Gear on Down Grade.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

The upkeep and endurance of an automobile is entirely up to the car owner. In the proportion as intelligent manipulation and care is used so is the life of the car lengthened.

For instance, when going down hill, keeping the brakes applied when it is not necessary causes the brakes to burn and lose their resistance. Again, shifting the gears before the clutch stops revolving does damage. Stopping the car suddenly or starting with a jerk are things that will soon reduce a car in value and hurry it to the junk pile.

Hardly a trip is made that the driver does not smell burnt brake lining, either on his or some one else's car. This is noticed especially on steep grades.

Burning brakes can be avoided, no matter what condition the road. Moreover it is neither safe nor economical to retard the car with its brakes when descending a hill. Leave the car in high gear and if the compression does not retard it enough, shift to second or first as the case may be. This will hold the car back with little or no wear on the engine.

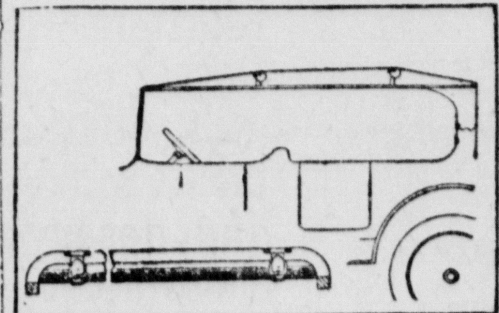

Some car drivers shut off the ignition when leaving the engine in gear going down a hill, believing it saves gas and also holds the car back better. This is a mistake. The butterfly valve in the carburetor is always open enough when the throttle is closed to permit the engine to idle. Therefore when the engine turns over it sucks up gas into the explosion chambers. If the ignition is off and the gas not ignited the gas accumulates in the exhaust pipe and loads the muffler with fumes. When the ignition is turned on again, this gas ignites all at once, possibly causing an explosion which blows the muffler to pieces.

Leave the ignition on under all road conditions and save gas in so doing.

Bow Protector Tends to Prevent Injury

The Scientific American in illustrating and describing a bow protector for automobile tops, the invention of T. H. Murphy, L. S. Isbell and E. W. Sawyer of North Anson, Me., says:

Among the objects of the invention

is to provide a safety device in the form of a cushion protecting means for the bow of a top of an automobile whereby to avoid possible injury, should an occupant of the rear seat be thrown upwardly and strike his head upon the bow. The device comprises a casing which may be inflated, and is adapted to be fitted upon the lower side of the bridge portion of the bow.

Large Washer Helps in Transferring Oil

The tipping over of the funnel while filling the gasoline tank or pouring oil into engine bases through breather pipes results with loss of oil unless the funnel is held with one hand, in which instance the person pouring is under a handicap. A simple modification to the funnel consists in soldering a large washer over the spout. With the washer secured to the funnel it will rest upright on the gas tank opening or on the breather pipes, permitting the use of both hands in tipping the oil can.

Every 1,000 Miles—

Lubricate steering gear, universal joints and break linkages. Tighten bolts and nuts, such as spring clips and body bolts, and replace missing cotter pins.

Wipe out collection of carbon dust in the ignition distributor and carefully oil the circuit breaker directly beneath.

Tighten or replace worn clips on demountable rims, and have badly worn out or cut tires replaced, as they may blow out and cause a bad skid.

Inspect brakes, jack up the rear axle and test the clearance of the bands. The lining should be free from oil, dirt and glaze and the bands so adjusted as to give the brakes an even, steady and certain application.

ATHLETIC STADIUM IN EXTINCT CRATER

Island of Oahu Once Place of Human Sacrifice.

Honolulu.—Punchbowl, the large extinct crater of one of the volcanoes that formed the island of Oahu and which once was used as a hill of sacrifice by the Hawaiian people, will become one of the largest athletic stadiums in the world if the plans of Maj. William Hoopai, athletic officer of the Hawaiian national guard, are consummated.

The stadium would be almost in the center of the city and would have a seating capacity of 95,000 persons, as large as the present population of the city. Prison laborers have started clearing kiawe and other brush from the sides of the crater and inside the bowl. Improvements also have been started to the one road leading to the top of the crater and efforts will be made to obtain municipal co-operation for the construction of another road.

Punchbowl Now Rifle Range.

Punchbowl, which towers 500 feet above sea level, forms a perfect amphitheater, and, in the opinion of Major Hoopai, could be transformed into a modern stadium at a small cost. It is now owned by the government and is used as a rifle range for the national guard of Hawaii. Its peak is the scene of the annual Easter sunrise service, which is held before a giant cross.

The last human sacrifice believed to have taken place on Punchbowl is shrouded in mystery, but tradition says that King Kamehameha IV, a heavy drinker, struck his only child during a drinking bout. The child received injuries which caused its death. Kamehameha planned an expedition of his crime. A decree was issued ordering all inhabitants of Honolulu to remain inside their houses that night.

Fire Burns on Sacrificial Rock.

What transpired is unknown, but tradition contends that a fire burned that night on a high rock where the sacrificial pit was situated. A heavy smoke fell and hovered around it, according to the stories of persons who disobeyed the king's order and watched the fire from afar. An old Hawaiian, questioned regarding this incident, said that nobody was known to have been missing in Honolulu after this evening, but that any drunken sailor might have disappeared easily in the darkness and that such a man never would be missed. In 1809 a chief who was captured as an enemy of Kamehameha the Great was known to have been burned at the stake on Punchbowl.

The crater rim measures 1,930 feet across from east to west and 1,700 feet across from north to south. The slope from the rim to the bottom of the crater is estimated at approximately 15 degrees. The floor of the bowl is about 200 feet below the rim.

Three Drown in Heroic Effort to Save Others

Amarillo, Tex.—Stories of heroic efforts of three men, who drowned in a lake 30 miles southwest of here recently, to save another were told by witnesses. The men, members of a hunting party, were able to remain above the icy water for an hour.

J. W. Mayhurst, fifty-three, of Claude, Tex., walked out about five hundred yards on the ice-covered lake, then suddenly broke through. Glen Randall, twenty-six, Amarillo, went to his assistance, but the ice gave way under him. S. W. Hammer, Santa Fe railroad switchman, also hurried out. He, too, broke through the ice.

Then for an hour a score of spectators watched the men in 12 or 15 feet of water help each other on to the edge of the ice coat, only to see the ice give way under their weight. Rescuers from the shore worked feverishly cutting the ice to reach the men with boats, but saw them drown before one-quarter the distance had been covered.

Firemen Start Fires to Test Their Efficiency

New York.—Three members of the Nyack volunteer fire department—Fred Metisky, Edgar Wanamaker and Frank Kirk—were indicted on a charge of arson in the second degree by the Rockland county jury at Nyack recently. County authorities say that within the last month they set fire to the Trowt boathouse, the Lydacker barn and the Gurney carpenter shop in Nyack, all of which were partly burned.

Metisky pleaded guilty and said that he and other men had become bored by sitting around the firehouse without any action and had decided to fire the places to test the efficiency of their apparatus and personnel. Wanamaker and Kirk pleaded not guilty. Metisky was remanded for sentence.

Optometrists Unable to Discover Perfect Eyes

Emporia, Kan.—"One hundred dollars for a pair of perfect eyes," read an offer made by the Kansas Association of Optometrists, which closed its convention in Emporia recently, and when the "spec" doctors opened a clinic at their headquarters many Emporians, proud of their eyesight, applied for examination. They were informed that no one had perfect eyesight and the prize would not be given. Eyes were like leaves, explained the optometrist in charge; no two were alike, and none was perfect. The doctors still have their prize money and will keep it forever unless they change the rules of the contest.

REHABILITATED MEN MAKE GOOD SHOWING

Vocational training of World war veterans has proved the most serious mistake in the care of the disabled by the government, according to Gen. John F. O'Ryan. Many of the veterans would have been better off if they had not been trained, he declared in an interview with a representative of the American Legion, upon his departure from Washington at the conclusion of a ten months' investigation of the veterans' bureau. The general said that this statement did not take into consideration any charges of negligence, extravagance or mismanagement, but considered only the system of rehabilitation used in caring for the men.

"I am firmly of the opinion," he said, "that there are a great many—the number may run into the thousands—of men in vocational training who would be better off if the government had never undertaken to re-educate them. By better off, I mean more able than they are now to cope with conditions and win economic independence."

"The government's vocational machinery never actually broke down; it never even started in the right way. Little attention was paid to getting the right men into the right course in 1920 and 1921. The whole thing was a travesty on the name of rehabilitation. Instead of teaching men to strike out and paddle their own canoes again, the tendency was to cultivate habitual pensioners."

"In 1922 when the federal board was merged with the veterans' bureau, things took a turn for the better and the situation has steadily improved. But the evil had been done. Instead of being taught to become independent and self-supporting, thousands of veterans had been schooled for two years in how to get a livelihood at public expense. It has been necessary to drop a good many men whose cases have become impossible. . . . I believe others will have to go. I cannot see how the bureau can turn out men as rehabilitated who obviously cannot make good."

Of the 70,000 men now receiving vocational training, about 2,000 a month are leaving the institutions as rehabilitated. Recent experience shows that approximately ninety-five per cent of these men are making good after their absorption into the business life of the nation.

Need $420 Annually for Each Child's Care

A contribution of approximately $420 annually for the care of each child at the American Legion Billetti at Otter Lake, Mich., is necessary for the war veterans to carry on this important phase of the work, according to Dr. C. V. Spawr, department commander of the Legion in that state.

Cottages are soon to be built and the whole plant extended as rapidly as funds permit, according to department officials. It is not unlikely that this project will be adopted by the national organization as one of the regional homes anticipated in the national program for child welfare by the Legion.

The orphan's project is in addition to another unique work of the American Legion in Michigan, at Roosevelt Memorial hospital near Battle Creek, where scores of tuberculosis ex-service men are cared for at the expense of the Legion.

Recreational Program for City of Rome, Ga.

A recreational program for the whole city, sponsored and paid for by the Shanklin-Attaway post of the American Legion in Rome, Ga., has been put into effect. Under direction of a paid community worker, the plan will be extended to every person in Rome. This is a part of the outlined Americanization program of the veterans' organization, but is one of the first examples of city-wide work undertaken.

Casino Aix-Le-Bains

In order to make the doughboys feel at home, a replica of the famous casino at Aix-Le-Bains in France, where many soldiers spent their leave, was constructed by Wichita (Kan.) American Legion members for their annual ball. The big ballroom was effectively decorated and was peopled with "Y" workers, canteen girls and other well known figures of leave-area days. Music was furnished by the local Legion band, which was a contender for prize money at the San Francisco convention of the American Legion.

Dignity

"Hey!" yelled the excited deckhand from the deck of the great liner Imbecille. "Man overboard!"
"Wot do you mean, you impertinent beggar—man overboard?" demanded an indignant but aristocratic voice from the water below. "Is Lawdship Percival McStabben 'Awkins' is overboard, I'd 'ave you know."—American Legion Weekly.

CONFIDENCE

The most beautiful of all human relationships are based on CONFIDENCE. Love is based on confidence, friendship is based on confidence, happy marriages are based on confidence; and so, confidence is the highest aim a business institution can achieve, because it introduces into the processes of buying and selling, something of the unselfish quality of those sacred human relationships that are untouched and uncontaminated by money. This store never wants to be guilty of such bad taste as to claim perfection, but it makes no secret of its ambition to foster and deserve at all times the confidence of its customers.

The crater rim measures 1,930 feet across from east to west and 1,700 feet across from north to south. The slope from the rim to the bottom of the crater is estimated at approximately 15 degrees. The floor of the bowl is about 200 feet below the rim.

Three Drown in Heroic Effort to Save Others

Amarillo, Tex.—Stories of heroic efforts of three men, who drowned in a lake 30 miles southwest of here recently, to save another were told by witnesses. The men, members of a hunting party, were able to remain above the icy water for an hour.

J. W. Mayhurst, fifty-three, of Claude, Tex., walked out about five hundred yards on the ice-covered lake, then suddenly broke through. Glen Randall, twenty-six, Amarillo, went to his assistance, but the ice gave way under him. S. W. Hammer, Santa Fe railroad switchman, also hurried out. He, too, broke through the ice.

Then for an hour a score of spectators watched the men in 12 or 15 feet of water help each other on to the edge of the ice coat, only to see the ice give way under their weight. Rescuers from the shore worked feverishly cutting the ice to reach the men with boats, but saw them drown before one-quarter the distance had been covered.

Firemen Start Fires to Test Their Efficiency

New York.—Three members of the Nyack volunteer fire department—Fred Metlsky, Edgar Wanamaker and Frank Kirk—were indicted on a charge of arson in the second degree by the Rockland county jury at Nyack recently. County authorities say that within the last month they set fire to the Ttownt boathouse, the Lydcker barn and the Gurney carpenter shop in Nyack, all of which were partly burned.

Metlsky pleaded guilty and said that he and other men had become bored by sitting around the firehouse without any action and had decided to fire the places to test the efficiency of their apparatus and personnel. Wanamaker and Kirk pleaded not guilty. Metlsky was remanded for sentence.

Optometrists Unable to Discover Perfect Eyes

Emporia, Kan.—"One hundred dollars for a pair of perfect eyes," read an offer made by the Kansas Association of Optometrists, which closed its convention in Emporia recently, and when the "spec" doctors opened a clinic at their headquarters many Emporians, proud of their eyesight, applied for examination. They were informed that no one had perfect eyesight and the prize would not be given. Eyes were like leaves, explained the optometrist in charge; no two were alike, and none was perfect. The doctors still have their prize money and will keep it forever unless they change the rules of the contest.

REHABILITATED MEN MAKE GOOD SHOWING

Vocational training of World war veterans has proved the most serious mistake in the care of the disabled by the government, according to Gen. John F. O'Ryan. Many of the veterans would have been better off if they had not been trained, he declared in an interview with a representative of the American Legion, upon his departure from Washington at the conclusion of a ten months' investigation of the veterans' bureau. The general said that this statement did not take into consideration any charges of negligence, extravagance or mismanagement, but considered only the system of rehabilitation used in caring for the men.

"I am firmly of the opinion," he said, "that there are a great many—the number may run into the thousands—of men in vocational training who would be better off if the government had never undertaken to re-educate them. By better off, I mean more able than they are now to cope with conditions and win economic independence."

"The government's vocational machinery never actually broke down; it never even started in the right way. Little attention was paid to getting the right men into the right course in 1920 and 1921. The whole thing was a travesty on the name of rehabilitation. Instead of teaching men to strike out and paddle their own canoes again, the tendency was to cultivate habitual pensioners."

"In 1922 when the federal board was merged with the veterans' bureau, things took a turn for the better and the situation has steadily improved. But the evil had been done. Instead of being taught to become independent and self-supporting, thousands of veterans had been schooled for two years in how to get a livelihood at public expense. It has been necessary to drop a good many men whose cases have become impossible. I believe others will have to go. I cannot see how the bureau can turn out men as rehabilitated who obviously cannot make good."

Of the 70,000 men now receiving vocational training, about 2,000 a month are leaving the institutions as rehabilitated. Recent experience shows that approximately ninety-five per cent of these men are making good after their absorption into the business life of the nation.

Need $420 Annually for Each Child's Care

A contribution of approximately $420 annually for the care of each child at the American Legion Billet at Otter Lake, Mich., is necessary for the war veterans to carry on this important phase of the work, according to Dr. C. V. Spawr, department commander of the Legion in that state.

Cottages are soon to be built and the whole plant extended as rapidly as funds permit, according to department officials. It is not unlikely that this project will be adopted by the national organization as one of the regional homes anticipated in the national program for child welfare by the Legion.

The orphan's project is in addition to another unique work of the American Legion in Michigan, at Roosevelt Memorial hospital near Battle Creek, where scores of tuberculosis ex-service men are cared for at the expense of the Legion.

Recreational Program for City of Rome, Ga.

A recreational program for the whole city, sponsored and paid for by the Shanklin-Attaway post of the American Legion in Rome, Ga., has been put into effect. Under direction of a paid community worker, the plan will be extended to every person in Rome. This is a part of the outlined Americanization program of the veterans' organization, but is one of the first examples of city-wide work undertaken.

Casino Aix-Le-Bains

In order to make the doughboys feel at home, a replica of the famous casino at Aix-Le-Bains in France, where many soldiers spent their leave, was constructed by Wichita (Kan.) American Legion members for their annual ball. The big ballroom was effectively decorated and was peopled with "Y" workers, canteen girls and other well known figures of leave-area days. Music was furnished by the local Legion band, which was a contender for prize money at the San Francisco convention of the American Legion.

Dignity

"Hey!" yelled the excited deckhand from the deck of the great liner Imbecille. "Man overboard!" "What do you mean, you impertinent beggar—man overboard?" demanded an indignant but aristocratic voice from the water below. "Is Lawdship Percival McStabben 'Awkins is overboard, I'd 'ave you know."—American Legion Weekly.

M'DILL PUBLIC SALE.

The public sale held by Walter D. McDill Monday was well attended and bidding was lively. The sale amounted to $2,000. Earl Sweptson was the auctioneer and White Campbell clerk. Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Rector will occupy the farm.

Shallowness.

Shallow waters show a very clear bottom and but little intensity of light is needed in order to display the pebbles and clear sand. That must be a "purest ray serene"—a pencil of strongest light—which discloses the black, rich, wreck-strewn depths. For the clearness of depth is very different from the clearness of shallowness. The former is a positive quality. The latter is negative.—Charles Warren Stoddard.

CONFIDENCE

The most beautiful of all human relationships are based on CONFIDENCE. Love is based on confidence, friendship is based on confidence, happy marriages are based on confidence; and so, confidence is the highest aim a business institution can achieve, because it introduces into the processes of buying and selling, something of the unselfish quality of those sacred human relationships that are untouched and uncontaminated by money. This store never wants to be guilty of such bad taste as to claim perfection, but it makes no secret of its ambition to foster and deserve at all times the confidence of its customers.

There is no higher success than TO BE BELIEVED IN!
